Pape Construction Builds Excellence

by November 21, 2013

Every home is unique, and every homeowner wants something different. When it comes to renovating a home or building from the ground up, countless details and nuances need to be agreed upon before the ultimate vision can be achieved. We've all heard disaster stories about constructions or renovations where everything fell apart — instances in which clients were not only left dismayed and disappointed, but also out a substantial amount of money and precious time.

The Hamptons is a beautiful and distinct area, and if you plan to build a new home or renovate an old one, it's imperative you choose a construction company whose reputation is stellar, skills are unmatched, and professionalism is its trademark. And while there are plenty of construction companies around that can take on a job, there are few that rival the singular combination of expertise, trust, and attention to detail of Pape Construction.

Pape Construction has been satisfying clients in the Hamptons for years, as the company truly understands that each home it builds must be treated as a unique creation that will be lived in for years to come. To that end, it is of critical importance that the client's wishes be served. Instead of simply aiming to finish a job as quickly as possible to move on to the next one, Pape Construction works with each client to build or renovate the home of his or her dreams in an atmosphere of openness and transparency that few construction companies can claim to have.

A nice working relationship and environment are one thing; a reputation for skill and precision, however, is another, and that is just what Pape Construction brings to each project: a talented group of seasoned professionals who are able to seamlessly navigate every aspect of the building process. Moreover, Pape Construction has spent years fostering sustained, close-knit relationships with clients, architects, and designers. This allows everyone involved to work together and consistently be on the same page, ensuring a continuity of vision, and thereby achieving superior results that continually surpass their clients' expectations.

Pape Construction bills itself as a boutique builder in the Hamptons, because the company does not take on more projects than it can handle. Pape Construction instead works with a select group of discerning clients. This allows the company to dedicate more time to each project than the typical construction company can. In doing so, nothing is lost in translation from the client's abstract wishes to the builder's tangible, final product, ensuring that the client's happiness and satisfaction are valued above all else.

Pape Construction also values the importance of using sustainable and recycled materials, and is firmly dedicated to creating the most efficient homes possible. The company does everything in its power to limit waste, recycle when possible, and even donates excess material.

Every aspect of Pape Construction's philosophy and execution is deemed superlative by not only the company's clients, but by third parties, as well. Homes built by Pape Construction have been featured in several national publications, including House Beautiful, Elle Décor, and a design showcase book put out by Vicente Wolf Associates.

As the president of Pape Construction, Phil Pape says: "Our philosophy is to build homes the way they should be built: with no shortcuts or compromises. Our clients appreciate our full vision, 'line-of-sight approach' that creates exceptional results and tremendous value."

There is a level of pride that Pape Construction takes in its projects that few other construction companies can claim. From diligent project management and estimating to expert field supervision and administrative support, Pape Construction imbues every aspect of its business with a distinct air of dignity and respect that are sorely missing in the industry.
